Idleness Looked On as Crime.

In industrial Switzerland there is no place for the idle. It is considered the duty of the authorities to assist, in every way possible, persons honestly seeking employment, and it is also held to be their duty to punish the work-shirker and to force him to earn his bread before he may eat it. No toleration is shown to the loafer, begging is prohibited by law, and vagrancy is classified as a crime in the legal code of the Confederation.

Milk Mills.

There is a tradition of a little stum boy from London who was very disappointed with the country, where he went for a short holiday, because he saw them "pump milk from a dirty old cow." The boy's idea of artificial milk is within realization, for, according to "L'Optimist," after manufactured butter we are to have artificial milk. It is already consumed extensively in China, and a mill is to be set up in France. The Chinese drop a few grains of powder into water, stir it, and it becomes milk. The powder is the soya bean crushed, and the French mill is to treat the bean so as to enable the milk powder to be sold in packets. It is said that an excellent cheese is obtained by the same process.—London Globe.

Pilgrims to the Holy Land.

Many Christian pilgrims annually visit the Holy Land in Syria, but compared with the number of Mohammedan pilgrims who visit their Holy Land in Arabia, the Christian pilgrims are few. Every Mohammedan feels it a duty to visit before he dies, both Mecca and Medina, the birthplace and burial place of their prophet.
